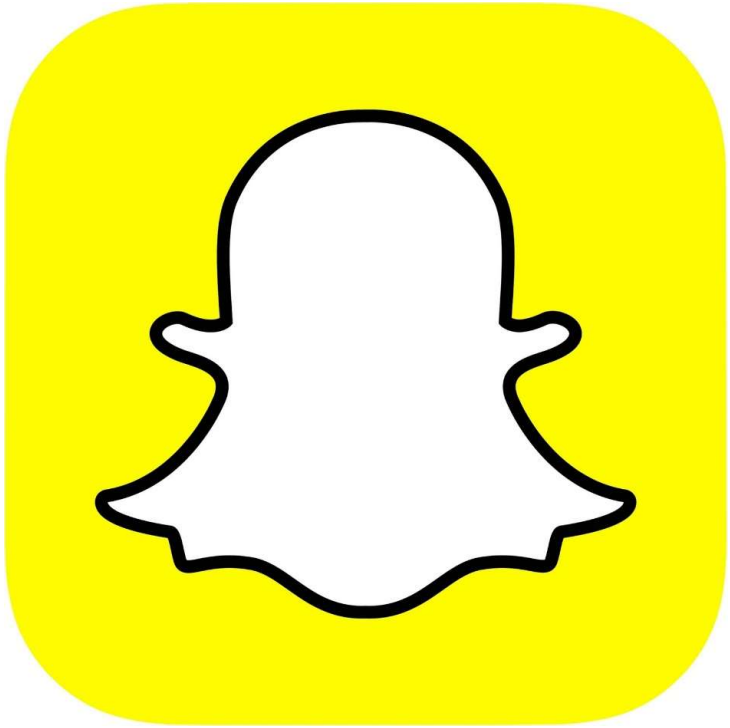
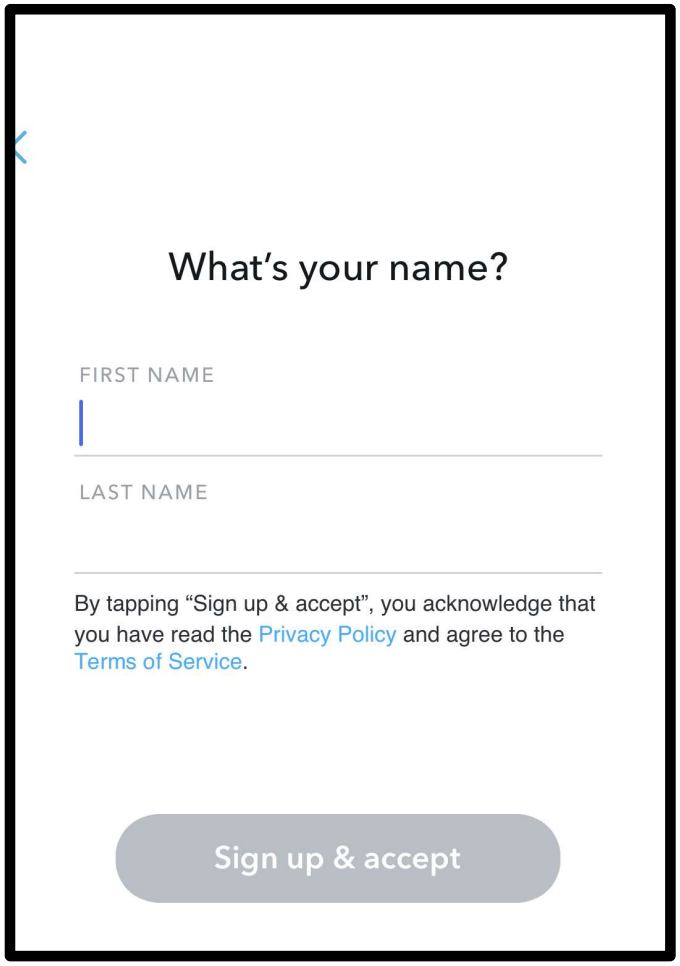
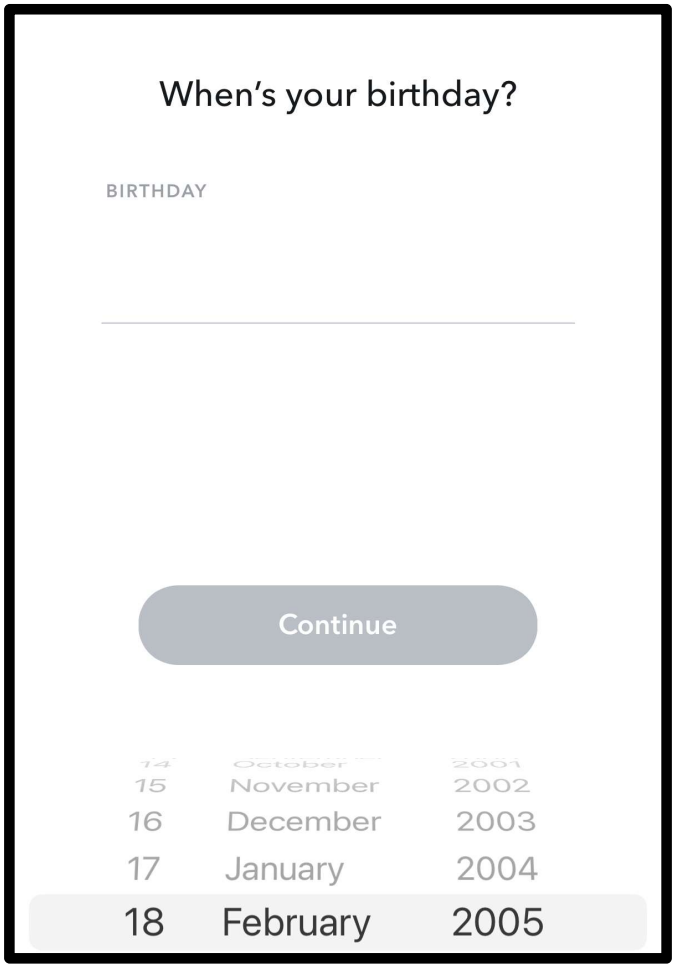
Snapchat



- Instant messaging app that allows pictures and video messaging.
- Pictures and messages are usually only available for a short time
- Has 293 million daily active users

Snapchat

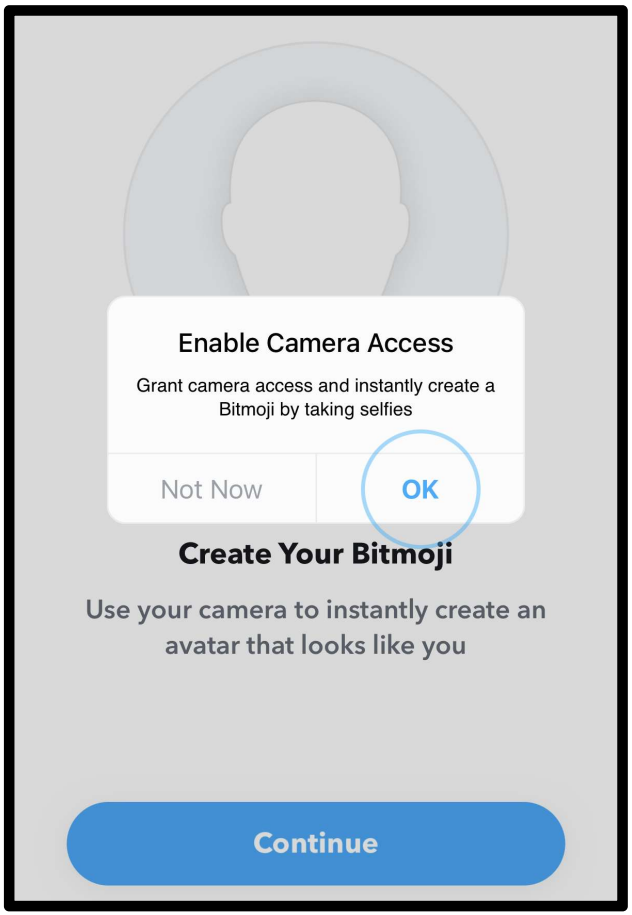


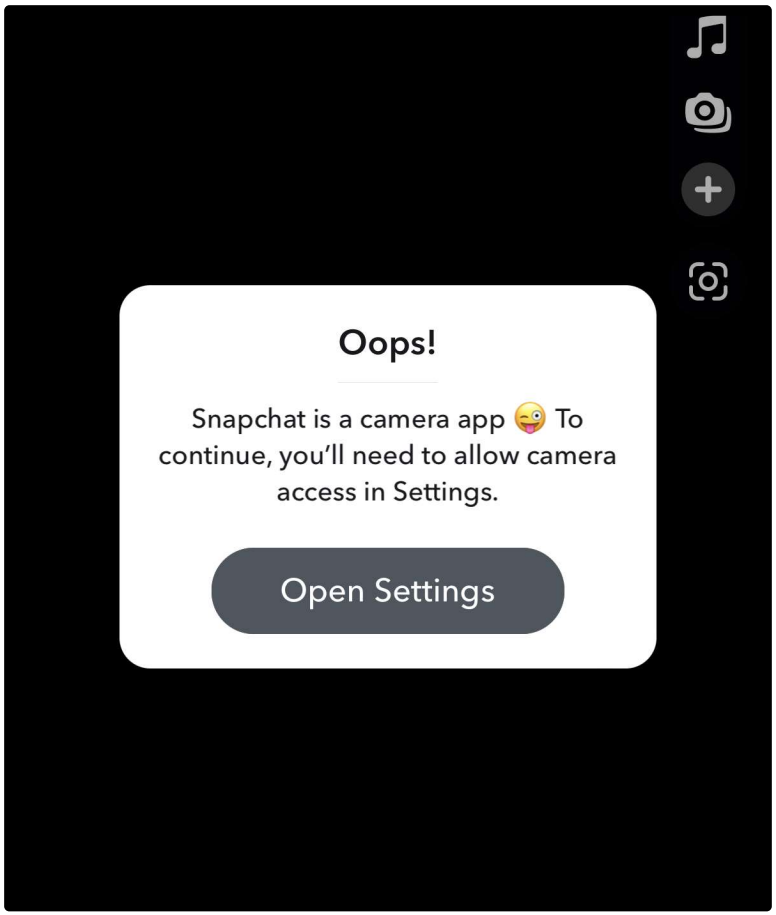


An account can be set up very easily with very little validation.

There is no way to check if the correct birthday has been entered

Snapchat

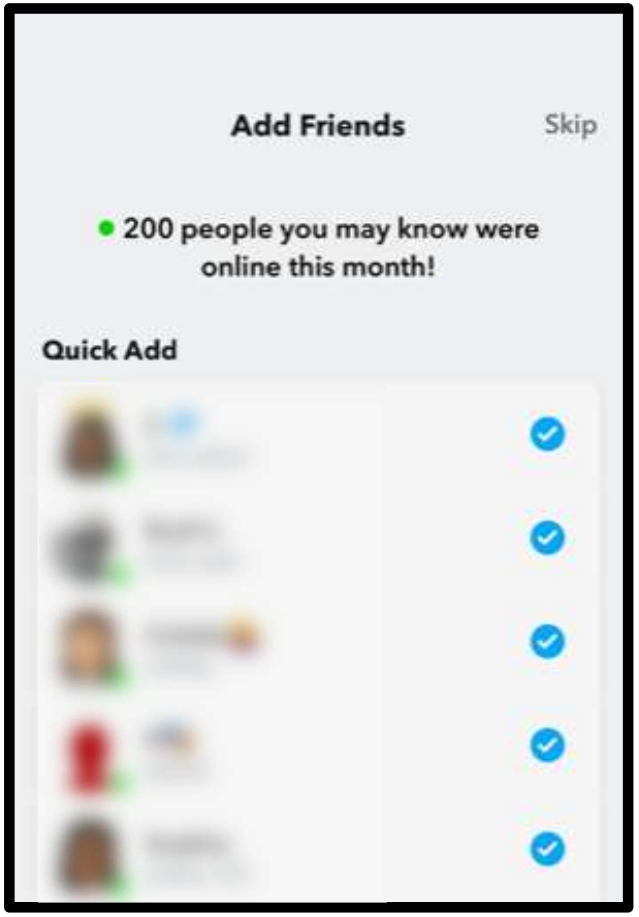




Camera access is automatically requested.

You can't access Snapchat without the camera.

Snapchat



Friends with accounts are automatically listed.

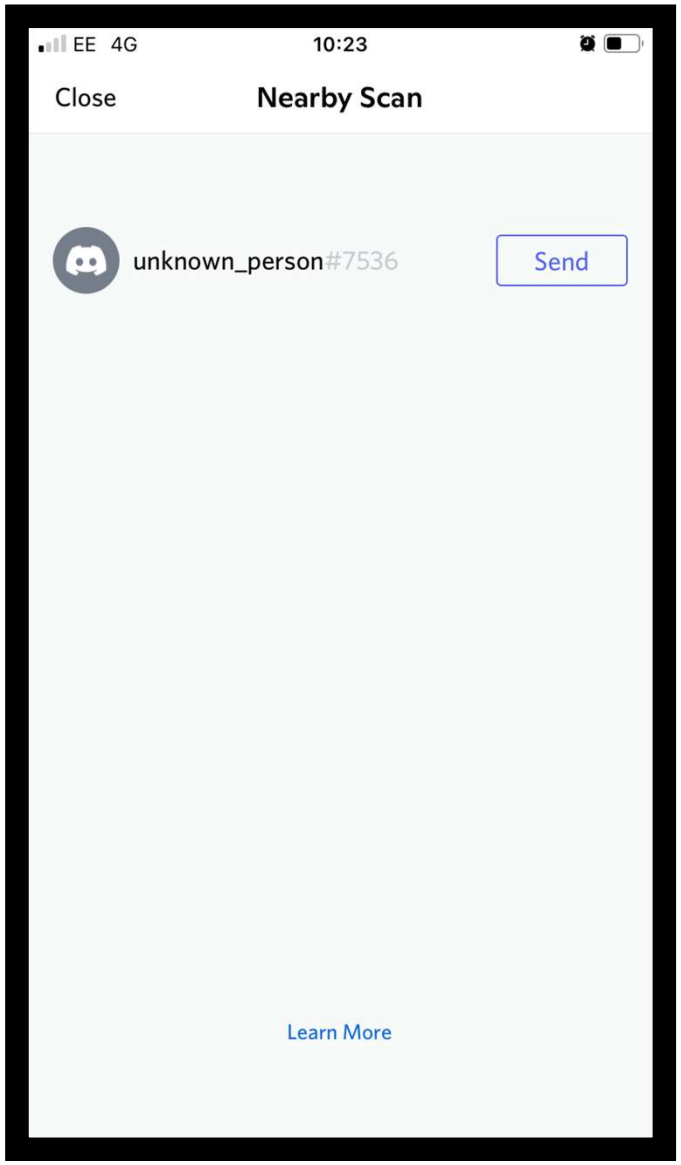
Random names can be searched for – real potential for adding strangers.

Pupils requesting friend's account details during online chat/gaming leave themselves vulnerable to strangers intercepting this information

Discord

- Chat platform that allows messages, voice notes, video calls.
- Communities called “servers” (group chats)
- Originally designed for gamers to chat as playing but has become increasingly popular and now have 350million users.

- Easy to download on phone, tablet or desktop
- Register with a phone number or email address (Neither of which are required to be verified)
- Requires you to input an “age” to download the app (phone or desktop)



- People link to phone number or email
- OR can scan anyone nearby and request

“My friends send me links and I join them. I don’t know everyone because some of them are friends of my friends and some of them are friends of those friends.”

Recent E-Safety examples we have dealt with

- Year 5 child with a Youtube account making videos of Roblox game play-throughs. Sexualised behavior towards other female players during gameplay and through chat. Username exposed onscreen through online chat system.

- Year 6 child changing their own Discord account to look like another member of class' (changing onscreen name, icon, etc) then sending themselves hateful comments and racist slurs. Screen grabbing these messages and then reporting the other child for having sent them.

- Year 5 child giving an incorrect snapchat account to another child in the class. When the other child accessed the account, it appeared to belong to an adult male who engaged in conversation briefly before video chatting/sending a picture of himself.

How can I keep my child safe online?

- Set clear limits, rules and boundaries
- What should you do if you see something that upsets you?
- What should you do if you want to look at another site/app?

- Take an interest in what children are watching/playing/doing on-line

- Check settings

- Take screenshots/screengrabs of conversations or images that might be deleted

- Put Parental Controls in place (PARENT Safe)
